

TROLLEY KILLS ONE, INJURES ANOTHER

One colored woman is dead today and another is at Freedman's Hospital in a serious condition suffering from injuries received when they were run down by a Laurel car of the Washington Railway and Electric Company at North Brentwood station, Prince George's county, Md., late yesterday afternoon.

The dead woman is Mrs. Caroline Crawford, fifty years old, and the injured one is Mrs. Elsie Crawford, wife of Private Clinton Crawford, of the First battalion, 372nd Infantry, formerly the First separate battalion, District National Guard, just returned from France.

Private Crawford had arrived at his home from Camp Meade only a short time before the accident. His wife and mother had returned from the parade in Washington when they were struck by the car.

Alighting from the car at Brentwood station, the two women walked behind it and directly into the path of an approaching west-bound car. The elder woman was run over and instantly killed, while the wife of the soldier was caught in the tender.

Private Crawford heard of the accident and he hurried to the scene only to find his mother dead and his wife unconscious. Coroner Robert E. Joyce will hold an inquest tomorrow.

An automobile operated by W. H. Matthews, of 101 D street northeast, collided at Third and H streets northeast with a street car of the Washington Railway and Electric Company, causing slight damage.

J. T. Keeley, of 60 Q street northwest, reported to the police last night that while he was driving his automobile north in east Potomac Park, an unidentified car coming in the opposite direction and traveling at an excessive rate of speed, zigzagged across the roadway and struck his vehicle. Keeley was unhurt, but his machine was badly damaged.

Slight damage resulted when an automobile operated by Edward S. Green, 1219 E street southeast, collided with an automobile operated by E. E. Hibson, of 1119 Fourth street northeast, at First and B streets southeast.

MAJ. PULLMAN TO KEEP UP ANTI-ACCIDENT CAMPAIGN

Police today were instructed by Major Pullman, superintendent of police, to continue the campaign to prevent traffic accidents and to arrest promptly all persons violating any section of the police regulations relating to traffic.

In a bulletin issued to the members of his command today, Major Pullman said:

"Continue your good work in the accident prevention campaign.

"Put a stop to reckless driving, excessive speeding, failure to stop fifteen feet behind street cars, driving while drunk and similar practices.

"Observe all automobiles running through the streets to see that all lights are burning.

"Arrest promptly in all cases of willful violation of traffic regulations.

"Accidents occur altogether too frequently; prevent them and help to save human life."

60-YEAR-OLD BOOZE HAS A FLAVOR ALL ITS OWN

CUMBERLAND, Md., Feb. 28.—Perry Hutzell, an old resident of near Maryland, Pa., several days ago revealed that he had hidden a pint bottle of whiskey under a certain rock sixty years ago, and going to the spot found the bottle and contents intact.

The cork was rotted off even with the neck of the bottle, but none of the whiskey had leaked from the bottle. The whiskey was rich brown in color, and the flavor, Hutzell declared, could not be described on account of its rare deliciousness, and only a connoisseur could really appreciate its taste, he said.

The whiskey was distilled by old-time methods, and for this reason it is said by all who have tasted it, to have a flavor all its own.

"DIAMOND QUEEN" SCORNS CRITICS

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—If Mrs. Charles H. Anthony were to try a quick getaway from Muncie, Ind., her home town, she could never effect a camouflage by low visibility, not if she had on most of her costume, which still, as always, consists for the most part of just quarts and quarts of diamonds. Once Charles H. himself remarked jokingly that these same stones were worth at par about $5 a quart, but he was severely rebuked for his intemperate statement, and said no more on the subject.

But Mrs. Anthony, who of an evening was wont to stroll down Peacock alley with diamond heels clicking, has come to New York this time with not the slightest intention of dazzling the populace.

Not that she has put any dimmers on her headlights—Oh, dear, no! Simply that she came in a hurry, unprepared, without the usual heavy artillery of gowns designed by her own self, the long-distance range of seventy-five-mile gowns, otherwise hats with aigrettes, and the usual hand-to-hand grenades of a watch set in lace stockings or a barometer in her crinoline.

Proud of Her Sex. The flash of electricity means much more to Mrs. Anthony today than all the treasures that yet lay buried in the mines of Kimberley. Her son, Harvey Mitchell Anthony, who gained distinction while head of the aircraft radio department at Great Lakes, Ill., is doing research work at Columbia University; therefore Mrs. Anthony's interest in radio flashes.

"I was going first to California for the winter," she said. "Then I suddenly changed my plans and came here. That is so nice because Harvey, my son, is at Columbia and we can see each other all the time.

"Harvey is a Harvard graduate and a Boston Tech man. I am so proud of him. After he was at Great Lakes he was sent to Pensacola and later went with the Curtis people. He is taking up some special work now."

Aside from Harvey Mrs. Anthony is interested in several things—diamonds, of course, and decollete gowns, and narrow skirts with stringy trains, birds of paradise, the family life of crinoline, aigrettes for hats and hand-embroidered things.

Drips Down Over Wrist. The most elaborate piece in Mrs. Anthony's collection of diamonds is an armlet attached to a diamond ring by means of a chain of diamonds that drip down over her wrist. The design is Mrs. Anthony's own and was executed for her.

"I hate people to think that I am a woman who loves the showy and sensational, but I do love pretty things, especially diamonds, and why shouldn't I have them?" she asked.

"The war is over now, and since the women did so much toward winning it—they brought about the end much quicker by their self-sacrifice and thought—why shouldn't we all make ourselves look as pretty as possible?"

"I love pretty clothes. They say quantity for the summer and quality for the winter. In summer you must have loads of things to keep looking cool and fresh all the time. In winter rich furs and feathers are the vogue."

Those Low Necks are O. K. Mrs. Anthony was asked her opinion of the present arguments in some women's clubs regarding the present styles of evening dress, especially the decollete gown.

"There is nothing so pretty as a pretty woman in a becoming evening dress with jewels," answered Mrs. Anthony. "I am opposed to all this strife over whether or not one should wear low-necked gowns. I think to regulate such a thing as woman's dress would be absurd, I think."

"Women of good taste will wear what is becoming to them, and others, who have neither good taste nor good sense, will either wear gowns too decollete or rave at those who wear a suitable now-neck effect."

"In regard to the wearing of aigrettes, I would like to know what these things are for, anyway? Every one is wearing skins of animals this winter in coats. Yet there is no or-

"Queen of Diamonds" and Her Gems

MRS. CHARLES H. ANTHONY. Who has made Peacock Alley sit up and take notice since she first flashed her jewels in that blase promenade. An enlargement in the upper left hand corner shows the famous armlet she affects on occasions, and that in the right hand corner her great diamond ring. Both of these baubles are worth a king's ransom.

ganization lamenting the killing off of animals. If any one woman buys an aigrette they—the reformers—all talk about how terrible it is to kill off the birds and how they suffer, and so on.

Lord Made 'Em For Women. "What did the good Lord make these pretty things for if not for women to wear and make themselves more attractive?"

"I suppose these reformers think the birds of paradise ought to be flying around in the jungles hitting against trees and getting their wings and feathers all broken up and messy. Why don't they start a propaganda about wearing fur skins?"

"Of course," Mrs. Anthony went on, "we don't want those birds to come extinct, for they are really lovely, aren't they? I would like to have a beautiful room in my home where I could have one of those birds of paradise to fly about. But if they didn't kill some of the seals and other fur-bearing animals I suppose there would be too many of them."

Reformers Bore Her. The listeners, not being an authority on the home life and habits of either crinoline or seal, or indeed their habits when captured and made into throws, muffis or other decorations, said naught.

"All of these people who raise a fuss about women's dress make me tired; that is all I will ever have to say about them," declared the instigator of the diamond heels, the diamond armlet, the watch in the slipper, and the bird-of-paradise substitute for a canopy.

After all the fun poked at Mrs. Anthony about the eccentricities of her costume, that she herself designs, and her jewel display, there is one outstanding fact—outstanding one might as well say—and that is her pride in her son's career.

It is a higher light in her life now than any gem that ever sparkled from her fingers. And after all, since every one of us must have some hobby, and other, and we all can't afford to put with diamonds—Mrs. Anthony must be allowed here. Anyone who witnessed the spark that flashed from her blue eyes when she recounted her son Harvey's achievements would not begrudge her the few lesser flashes that come forth from her favorite hobby.

FATHER SMITH IS AID TO CARDINAL

BALTIMORE, Feb. 28.—The Rev. Albert E. Smith, a native of Washington, and assistant pastor of the cathedral here, has been appointed secretary to Cardinal Gibbons.

Father Smith's promotion came about as the result of the death of Monsignor Fletcher, whose place as rector of the cathedral was filled by the Rev. Eugene Connelly, former chancellor of the archdiocese of Maryland. The Rev. Eugene Connelly, who had been secretary to the cardinal, was promoted to the chancellorship, and Father Smith to the secretaryship.

Father Smith was born in Washington, D. C., in May, 1878, attending St. Peter's school and Gonzaga College in that city. From there he went to St. Charles College, near this city, and pursued his philosophical and theological studies at St. Mary's Seminary.

He was ordained to the priesthood on August 29, 1901, and assigned to St. John's Church, Frederick, Md. Three years later he was transferred to St. Mary's Church at Hagerstown. Four years later he attended the Apostolic Mission House at Washington.

After his year there he was sent to St. Mary's Star of the Sea Church, Baltimore, where he was for five years. He was brought to the cathedral in 1917.

BOATMEN THREATEN STRIKE TOMORROW

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Unless President Wilson interferes, New York harbor will be tied up by a strike of marine workers tomorrow, according to Thomas L. DeLahanty, president of the marine workers' affiliation, today.

DeLahanty has sent a telegram to the President notifying him that the Marine's wage award is unsatisfactory to the 16,000 boatmen involved. The message informed the President that the leaders of the men would be unable to prevent a resumption of the harbor strike unless immediate and equitable relief is given.

The men met here this morning to decide on whether a general strike order will be issued, effective at midnight tomorrow. Delegates of the union are awaiting the President's response to DeLahanty's telegram before taking definite action.

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

Why is man and woman half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried, some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really in a funk?

If we all would practice inside bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of clouds of half-sick, anemic-looking souls with puffy, muddy complexions, there would be crowds of happy, healthy, rosy checked people everywhere.

The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside bath.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not do much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

SWIFT BOOK TELLS OF HUGE 1918 TRADE

Some inside facts about a concern that last year did a billion and quarter dollars' worth of business are given in Swift and Co.'s 1919 year book, which has just come from the press.

The year book covers in general the part Swift & Co. have played in the packing industry of this country in the thirty-four years of the company's history, and in particular tells of the part the company has played in the war in the past year or two.

Indicating the magnitude of the company's business is the statement showing shipments of 1,000 carloads of meat and meat products a week for the American army at home and overseas.

Ship 25,000 Carloads. During the year ending November 1, 1918, Swift & Co. shipped 760,000, 000 pounds of meat to the American army and navy. This amounts to about 25,000 carloads of meat, which would make a single train 200 miles long.

For the fiscal year 1917, Swift & Co.'s profits were $34,660,000, but for the fiscal year 1918 the net profits were only $21,137,277.44. This, the year book shows, was due to strict adherence to the rules and regulations of the Food Administration.

From last year's profits $9,000,000 was paid in dividends, the balance being used for improvement of facilities.

Deny "Big Five" Charge. Denying the charge that the company is one of the so-called "Big Five" and a party to a meat monopoly, the year book states that the Federal Trade Commission, in its inquiry "basses its monopoly charge almost entirely on the fact that the percentage of live stock receipts taken by each packer in the different markets remains approximately the same from year to year."

Steamfitter Powders His Nose as He Declares Wife Of Mechanic Vamped Him

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—"She vamped me, your honor," said William Rausch, a steamfitter, arrested on a warrant sworn out by Roy C. Klekner, charging that Rausch stole Mrs. Klekner's two diamond rings, valued at $500.

"I didn't steal 'em," explained Rausch. "Mrs. Klekner vamped me and prompted to give my wife $500 because she had come over to live with us. One day my wife asked her about the money. She was angry and moved out, but before she went I took the rings, because of her promise. She had threatened to shoot me if I would not love her."

So saying, Rausch demanded that the powder puff found in his pocket be restored to him, and he proceeded to powder his nose. He was testifying in the Hyde Park court before Judge Swanson.

Klekner is a mechanic.

Year. This is taken as prima facie evidence that there must be an agreement among the packers dividing the receipts according to fixed percentages.

Swift & Co. has no agreement whatever, the year book claims, with any other packer, affecting the division of live stock receipts.

JAILED FOR LIQUOR SALE IN "SOFT" DRINK CAFE

HAERSTOWN, Md., Feb. 28.—Philip Herrmann, formerly of Pennsylvania, for many years president of the defunct Hagerstown Brewing Company, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging the sale of liquor in Hagerstown, which is a "dry" city, and was sentenced by Judge T. A. Poffenberger to one year, in jail and $500 fine. The court declared Herrmann's "soft" drink cafe a public nuisance and ordered the place closed.

RAISE BUT $20,000 OF $150,000 DRIVE

But $20,000 of the District's quota of $150,000 in the national drive for funds by the American committee for relief in the near east, has been subscribed, it was announced today.

"A drive was to end early this week, but the time was extended until tomorrow night in the hope that interest in the campaign would be aroused to such an extent that a major portion of the fund would be raised."

Mass meetings will be held tonight and tomorrow night at the Dunbar High School, by the colored committee, to aid the campaign here. Music will be furnished by the Dunbar High School Orchestra.

A post-campaign mass meeting for the fund will be held in the Liberty Hut next Wednesday night.

Halp Gueunian, an Armenian violinist, who has volunteered his services to the Washington committee, will play.

Mrs. Newton D. Baker has been asked to sing, while Dr. G. W. Hunter, of New York, and Charles W. Darr, chairman of the committee on meetings, will deliver short talks.

JAPAN FAVORS LEAGUE. MARSHALLS, Feb. 28.—The Marquis Kinnouchi Saloni, former prime minister of Japan, who is to head the Japanese delegation at the peace conference and who has been elected a permanent vice president of the conference, has arrived here. Before departing for Paris, Marquis Saloni said: "While it is impossible for us to express an opinion on what has transpired since the peace conference opened in Paris, having been forty days on the sea voyage, I have no hesitation in saying that Japan desires to see a league of nations organized so as to insure a more free and effective civilization in practice as well as in theory."
